

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

Positive =
the child “enjoying” the carnal pleasures of the ‘moment’ he desires (what the child has in common with all children).

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

Negative = the parent's restraint of the child, preventing him from "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (dividing the child from his "self" and from other children with the same desires).

Positive = the child "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (what the child has in common with all children).

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

Back home, when parental authority is brought against the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' (which now includes affirmation by the class) the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is made manifest (in the form of hostility), his addiction to affirmation, i.e., to the Positive having now taken control of his life.

If the Negative, i.e., parental authority, i.e., doing right and not wrong according to the parent's standards, i.e., "judgmental-ism," "prejudice" is discouraged, i.e., removed in the classroom, and the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' is accentuated and affirmed, the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is increased—his natural desire for pleasure and his resentment toward restraint (affirmed by the class) now being 'justified' in his eyes.

Negative = the parent's restraint of the child, preventing him from "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (dividing the child from his "self" and from other children with the same desires).

Positive = the child "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (what the child has in common with all children).

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

The praxis of affirmation in the classroom negates the Negative, i.e., negates respect for parental authority in the child's feelings, thoughts, and actions, as well as in his relationship with others and the world, turning him against parental authority.

Back home, when parental authority is brought against the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' (which now includes affirmation by the class) the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is made manifest (in the form of hostility), his addiction to affirmation, i.e., to the Positive having now taken control of his life.

If the Negative, i.e., parental authority, i.e., doing right and not wrong according to the parent's standards, i.e., "judgmental-ism," "prejudice" is discouraged, i.e., removed in the classroom, and the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' is accentuated and affirmed, the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is increased—his natural desire for pleasure and his resentment toward restraint (affirmed by the class) now being 'justified' in his eyes.

Negative = the parent's restraint of the child, preventing him from "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (dividing the child from his "self" and from other children with the same desires).

Positive = the child "enjoying" the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' he desires (what the child has in common with all children).

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

The praxis of affirmation in the classroom negates the Negative, i.e., negates respect for parental authority in the child's feelings, thoughts, and actions, as well as in his relationship with others and the world, turning him against parental authority.

Back home, when parental authority is brought against the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' (which now includes affirmation by the class) the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is made manifest (in the form of hostility), his addiction to affirmation, i.e., to the Positive having now taken control of his life.

If the Negative, i.e., parental authority, i.e., doing right and not wrong according to the parent's standards, i.e., "judgmental-ism," "prejudice" is discouraged, i.e., removed in the classroom, and the Positive, i.e., the child's desire for the carnal pleasures of the 'moment' is accentuated and affirmed, the child's resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is increased—his natural desire for pleasure and his resentment toward restraint (affirmed by the class) now being 'justified' in his eyes.

"There are many stories of the conflict and tension that these new practices are producing between parents and children."

(David Krathwohl, Benjamin S. Bloom, Taxonomy of Educational Objectives Book 2: Affective Domain)

THE PRAXIS OF AFFIRMATION (THE CONSENSUS PROCESS) IN THE CLASSROOM

All I have to do as a facilitator of ‘change’ is “encourage” the students in the classroom to dialogue their opinions to a consensus (affirmation) and the rest, i.e., rebellion against parental authority will naturally follow.

Back home, when parental authority is brought against the Positive, i.e., the child’s desire for the carnal pleasures of the ‘moment’ (which now includes affirmation by the class) the child’s resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is made manifest (in the form of hostility), his addiction to affirmation, i.e., to the Positive having now taken control of his life.

If the Negative, i.e., parental authority, i.e., doing right and not wrong according to the parent’s standards, i.e., “judgmental-ism,” “prejudice” is discouraged, i.e., removed in the classroom, and the Positive, i.e., the child’s desire for the carnal pleasures of the ‘moment’ is accentuated and affirmed, the child’s resentment toward the Negative, i.e., toward parental authority is increased—his natural desire for pleasure and his resentment toward restraint (affirmed by the class) now being ‘justified’ in his eyes.

"There are many stories of the conflict and tension that these new practices are producing between parents and children."

(David Krathwohl, Benjamin S. Bloom, Taxonomy of Educational Objectives Book 2: Affective Domain)